Recommended textbooks, manuals, journals and electronic resources

REVISED OCTOBER 2008

AIM OF LIBRARY LIST: To detail the resources needed to support medical education in the immediate postgraduate years prior to vocational training.

Hospitals should aim to provide as current and as authoritative a collection as is achievable, taking into account local needs and available resources. Council recognises that there will be variations depending on the size of the hospital and the medical services it provides. It does not anticipate that every library will hold the most recent editions at all times. However, recent editions of several titles in each speciality area should be available. Hospitals may wish to purchase new editions on an alternate basis, rather than every update. Council also accepts that there may be good alternatives to those listed, which you should state at the time of the hospital visit, so they can be considered when the list is next updated (every two years). It is essential that Internet access is readily available, as many essential resources are available online.

Please note in the left hand column which texts are available. You can list any alternatives in the space provided and the end of each section.

NOTES:

Plum bold entries are new editions or changes made in 2008

Deletions are listed at the end
